February Meeting: "Texas History in Slave Trade Records" -- Kathryn Black Morrow

Kathryn is a working historian and researcher. She just completed a three-year project with Texas Southern University summarizing and indexing a series of more than 200 original documents pertaining to the slave trade in early Texas. Kathryn published the index on this series in December 2006 as a book titled The Guide to the Texas Slave Trade Series, 1818-1886. Her book Defender of America's Gulf Coast; Ellington Field, Texas 1917-2005 is due out in the Spring of 2007. She has also published several poems and short stories.

Kathryn is a native Texan, born in the Garden Oaks subdivision in Houston. She was the youngest child of an Air Force officer who served at Ellington Field in the early 1950's. She began her career as a professional historical and genealogical researcher at the North Carolina Department of Archives and History in Raleigh, North Carolina. She also taught family history and research methods at the Coastal Carolina Community College. She now has thirty-eight years of experience in academic document research, family research and historical documentation. She has been a seminar instructor in research methods, organization, strategy, and primary source documentation. Kathryn's specialty is United States history and genealogical research with an emphasis on Texas, Oklahoma, Native American, and African American history. She works on independent grant projects and offers research support for Master's and doctoral papers, as well as book research and supportive writing. Kathryn is currently working with the Greater Houston Preservation Alliance on the Museum of Houston Online project.

Kathryn and her husband Michael live in Clear Lake and have four children and nine grandchildren scattered across the United States. Kathryn holds a B.A. in Modern Languages from Oklahoma City University, 1980 and a M.A. in History from University of Houston Clear Lake, 2003.

Message from the President

Loren Martin

BAGS is in a very exciting time period, with many activities!

Next month on Saturday, March 24th BAGS and the Clayton Library Friends are co-hosting a family history seminar, featuring nationally-known speaker, Claire Mire Bettag. We are looking forward to delivering this major educational event to our community and are considering offering similar seminars on an annual basis.

BAGS has been working with several local community libraries to provide both genealogical displays and speakers for their events. Many of our members have been involved in these efforts.

When we were first formed for charitable and educational purposes, we conducted several genealogical mini-seminars to help our members learn how to better conduct their family searches. After one series of classes, BAGS organized a trip to visit the LDS Family History Center in Salt Lake City, Utah. The BAGS Member Services committee, led by Shirley Lindquist, has recently renewed this educational effort and scheduled a class, "Genealogy - A Basic Course in Family History", on Saturday February 17, 2007. Alice Braud-Jones, BAGS 1st Vice President, and Doug Wilson, board member and newsletter layout director, will conduct this class.

Susie Ganch has worked diligently to obtain and sell our very own beautiful BAGS totes. Use of these totes to transport our genealogical material helps publicize BAGS when we take our bus trips to the Clayton Library. Thanks to Mary Martin, these bus trips are well organized and provide ongoing opportunities for even more members to join together and visit our local fantastic genealogical facility.

Many members are in the process of creating an outstanding BAGS cookbook. Along with Resa Hennings and Claudia Grafton, members are contributing family recipes and working on the editing and composition.

Thank you to all of the individuals who work to make BAGS so great!

Loren

Genealogy Cruise Conference

Resa Hennings

I had the good fortune to attend the second annual Genealogy Conference and Cruise sponsored by Wholly Genes, creator of The Master Genealogist ("TMG") genealogy software program. The Diamond Princess sailed from Los Angeles November 11-18, 2006, to Puerto Vallarta, Mazatlan, and Cabo San Lucas.

The real meat of the cruise, however, was the three days at sea when the 400 participants were addressed by an array of nationally-known published speakers. Internet author and guru Dick Eastman spoke about "Genealogy Searches on Google" and "The Latest Technology for Genealogists". Marsha Hoffman Rising, CG, FUGA, FASG, presented "The Critical Connection: Linking the Generations between 1850 and the Colonial Period" and "Pearls for Finding People." Outstanding New England genealogist, Robert Charles Anderson, FASG, spoke on "Transatlantic Migration" and "Before There Were Counties There Were Colonies." Author and recipient of numerous awards, Megan Smolenyak Smolenyak presented "Trace Your Roots with DNA" and "Find That Obituary! Online Newspaper Research." She was lead researcher for the PBS award-winning Ancestors series, among other equally notable endeavors.

Bob Velke, developer of TMG and Wholly Genes president, conducted numerous sessions showing participants how to use the program at beginning, intermediate, and advanced levels. He was assisted by the amazing TMG Tech Support staff, beta testers, and others extremely versed in the program's capabilities.

The third annual TMG Genealogy Conference and Cruise is in the planning stages! Stay tuned at www.whollygenes.com.

FamilySearch Indexing (FSI)

Doug Wilson

The Family History Library (FHL) of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (LDS) is the largest of its kind in the world. Since the FHL was founded in 1894, the library has collected book and microform records worldwide. Their collection of more than 2.4 million reels of microfilm has been falling behind technologically as both film and camera manufacturers have been replaced chiefly by digital imaging. The LDS has begun converting the microfilm to digital images. The process has been largely automated, to the point that a roll of microfilm can be converted to digital images in about 20 minutes. This process is proceeding around the clock on multiple converters. Ultimately, all the images will be freely accessible on the Internet.

LDS has committed to index these records – an astounding effort since it requires people to do this. Over the last year or two, they have developed software that makes it practical to index the images from a home computer. They started out using LDS volunteers to debug the process and test the tutorials and helps. Now they are accepting other volunteers from the genealogical community at large. I have been indexing less than two months and completed about 1700 records. If you have spare time in chunks of a half hour or so, you can make a lasting contribution to this work. The "computer specifications" page lists the minimum hardware and software configuration required to volunteer. You will need a high-speed Internet connection.

Introduction

To access the FSI website, go to <http://www.familysearchindexing.org/en/index.jsp>. There are links to review the projects now being indexed and those that will be coming in the future. As I write this, one of the presently active projects is Texas Death Certificates 1951-1976. The LDS is managing ten other active projects. Five other organizations have active projects that are of particular interest to them. The 1900 U.S. Census for Texas is on the future list. You can see the project-specific instructions for any of the indexing projects. For example, let's look at the Texas Death Certificates by clicking on the "Projects" tab and then "Texas\_Death\_Certificates\_1951-1976" link. You can see the great detail provided to help with the actual indexing.

Volunteer

You need to register to begin volunteering. To register, click on the "Volunteer" button found on the Home web page. Registration requires your name, E-mail address, city, state, and county. Your acceptance as an indexer volunteer will be emailed to you in two or three working days. Meanwhile, click on the "Install Now" button found on the Home web page to download and install the free indexing software. While you are waiting for approval of your registration, use the online tutorial to learn about the indexing process.

Indexing

You will be assigned a user ID and you will need to create a strong password. When that is accomplished, you can access the FSI program on your home computer.

Click the "Download From" icon and select one record batch from the project you want to work on.

You will receive from 25 to 50 records, depending on the record layout, that typically look like the screen shot below.

When you have entered the data in the chart and performed the quality control step, the record is submitted and hopefully accepted. Two volunteers independently index each record batch. Any conflicting data is resolved by a third person, the arbitrator. (You never find out who the other folks are or what resolution was made of conflicts!) After I got the swing of things, it took me about an hour to index the 50 records on a census page.

And that's about it. I feel this effort will make the accessibility of FHL much better for future generations of genealogists.

Have fun indexing!

FSI Indexing Page on Home Computer
