Early Migration In, Out, and Across North Carolina presented Diane L. Richard

Advance registration required. Pre-register now by clicking HERE.
An email will be sent with instructions on how to join the meeting.

Many individuals and families migrated into North Carolina, especially in the colonial and pre-Civil War time period. Depending on who was immigrating and when, different locales in North Carolina were hot spots for emigrants from abroad either directly or via Virginia, South Carolina, Pennsylvania and beyond. As the state developed, resources were depleted, productive land was becoming more scarce, settlers considered it to be getting too crowded, and we see a pattern of western migration. This migration often did not stop at the state borders. Many families spent a few years, a generation or a few generations in North Carolina, often hopscotching across the state, east to west, before migrating to adjoining states and beyond. Let's explore these years of migrating North Carolinians — the history of the times and the documentary trail left behind.

Diane L. Richard, Mosaic Research and Project Management (MosaicRPM), has been doing genealogy research since 1987 and since 2004 professionally focused on the records of North Carolina and southern states. She is co-leader of Tar Heel Discoveries, started in 2018, which offers guided North Carolina genealogical research programs providing participants targeted, focused, research assistance leading to new family discoveries.

BAGS Brick Wall Busters Special Interest Group (SIG) has been successfully meeting for several months. Our members are sharing new ideas and perspectives on researching that elusive ancestor.

Do you have an ancestor that seems to have disappeared? Join the team leading BAGS Brick Wall Busters at their next session on Sunday, September 19, 1:00pm. Visit the BAGS Brick Wall Busters Special Interest Group web page for Advance Registration and submission information. Submissions are due at least one week prior to each session and should be directed to Kathleen Williams at emailcoord@txbayareagen.org.

German Special Interest Group (SIG) Is Reorganizing

The BAGS German SIG is not meeting during September while we make plans for our second year. We learned a lot about researching German (and German speaking) ancestors during our first year of meetings. For our monthly meetings starting in October 2021, we invite you to join us regardless of your level of experience with German genealogy research. Our discussions will include how to start researching your immigrant ancestors, many recommendations on where to research, and member-helping-member research.

If you are interested in joining us again, or for the first time, please register your interest by completing our survey form on the BAGS web site, or by contacting George Porterfield or Karen Engelauf. The survey includes a question about what day and time each month would be the best meeting time for you. The responses to this question will help to determine when the German SIG will meet each month. The SIG will only be meeting once per month.
